LOYOLA

DEDICATION

On June 12, 1954, Pope Pius XII officiated at a canonization before a vast throng in St. Peter's Basilica, Rome . . . . When the solemn ceremonies were over a new saint had been raised to the altars of the Church . . . Father Joseph Pignatelli, S.J., had become St. Joseph Pignatelli, S.J. . . . . In November, the announcement of a campus triduum in his honor caused many Loyolans to inquire: "Who is this new Jesuit Saint? . . . . What did he do? . . . Why was he canonized?" . . . During the triduum they received the answers to these questions . . . They learned that Joseph Pignatelli had attained heroic sanctity while playing a decisive role in one of the great turning points of history . . . . Joseph Pignatelli, a prince on both sides of his family, was born in Aragon, Spain, in 1737 . . . . He appeared on the world stage just as another of history's never-ending attempts to destroy the Catholic Church was getting under way . . . . Devotees of rationalism, freemasonry and allied groups were planning their strategy . . . . Numbered among the adherents of this alliance were Ministers of State, men who were the real rulers of many powerful European nations . . . The Society of Jesus, then in the foremost position to defend the Holy See, was selected as the object of the initial assault, and a campaign was prepared to eliminate the Jesuits by calumny, in accordance with Voltaire's advice: "Heap lies on boldly, my friends, and some of them will stick." . . . . After the Jesuits were put out of the way, the other Orders, the clergy and the Papacy itself would be attacked . . . Although the conspirators did actually succeed in their ambition to kill off the Jesuits, their triumph proved to be a short-lived one . . . After forty-one years in the tomb, the Society of Jesus, in imitation of its Namesake, rose from the dead and walked the earth once more . . . . The major credit for this unprecedented resurrection belongs to Joseph Pignatelli . . . Speaking at Pignatelli's beatification ceremonies in 1933, Pope Pius XI declared: ". . not only was he constituted by Divine Providence the link between the old and the new Society of Jesus, but he also in justice must be honored as the Restorer of the Society of Jesus." . . . The whole life of Pignatelli was filled with the crisis that menaced the Society and the Church . . . He entered the Society at Tarragona, Spain, in 1753 . . . . He was still a very young Jesuit when the thunder of the gathering storm began sounding in his ears . . . . The Jesuits of Portugal, he learned, had been banished from their native land . . . Three years later, just as he was preparing to say his first Mass, word reached him that the French Jesuits had been driven out of France . . . Then came the order banishing all Spanish Jesuits . . . Speaking of this order, Roda, an accomplice of Aranda, the Prime Minister, wrote in a letter still extant: "We have finished off the daughter. It now remains that we acquit ourselves as creditably with the holy mother, the Roman Church." . . . Pignatelli, as a Spanish grandee, was offered immunity from exile, which he refused . . . Instead he accepted the responsibility from his provincial of leading the 600 members of the Aragon province into exile . . . . Young Father Pignatelli and his fellow Jesuits, herded on thirteen small and filthy ships, spent the next four months wandering around the Mediterranean seeking in vain for a place to land . . . At length, the refugees were accepted by the island of Corsica, but within the year a French invasion started them wandering once more . . . Eventually, Ferrara, Italy agreed to receive them . . . It was at Ferrara, that word of the suppression came to Father Pignatelli . . . . Relentlessly threatened by European governments, Clement XIV, to save the peace of the Church, decided to suppress the Society of Jesus . . . . On July 21, 1773, he reluctantly issued the papal brief of suppression . . . . Father Pignatelli moved to Bologna as a secular priest . . . His little home there became the rendezvous for ex-Jesuits and the power house behind the drive for the restoration of the Society . . . Long years of discouragement failed to make Pignatelli give up hope, and, then, toward the century's end, little rays of encouragement began to appear . . . . In 1793, Pius VI told Pignatelli that Catherine the Great of Russia had refused to promulgate the brief of suppression . . . Pignatelli resolved to go to Russia, but changed his mind when the Duke of Parma, with the approval of the Pope, invited him and other ex-Jesuits to start a community there . . . In Parma, on July 6, 1797, Father Pignatelli, no longer an ex-Jesuit, renewed his Jesuit vows . . . . He was named master of novices and later provincial of Italy . . . Driven out of Parma by French troops, Pignatelli next established a church and house of the Society in Rome. This return of the Jesuits to Rome was really the dawn of a new day . . . . Soon, the Jesuits would be returning everywhere . . . On November 15, 1811, Father Joseph Pignatelli, S.J., died in the odor of sanctity . . . Three years later, on August 7, 1814, Pope Pius VII restored the Society of Jesus throughout the world . . . . A Saint in Heaven cannot but rejoice exceedingly when he learns that his life work on earth is at long last producing marvelous fruit . . . . This being so, it must have been an occasion of indescribable joy for St. Joseph Pignatelli when he looked down from celestial heights and beheld his beloved Society of Jesus rising from the dead all over the world . . . . .

To St. Joseph Pignatelli, Restorer of the Society of Jesus, we, the students of Loyola University of the South, dedicate our 1955 yearbook, the Wolf.

ROBERT C. HANBERG

In memoriam . . .

With Christmas but a few days away, two Loyola students, Bobby Hanberg and Sylvia Nunez left the campus to spend Christmas with their families.

Sylvia was headed for Las Vegas, Nev., accompanied by her mother and sister, to spend the holidays with her father. Taking advantage of an automobile ride part of the way, Bobby was with them, bound for his home in California.

Shortly after their departure, Loyola received word of an accident which proved fatal to all four.

Requiescant in pace . . .

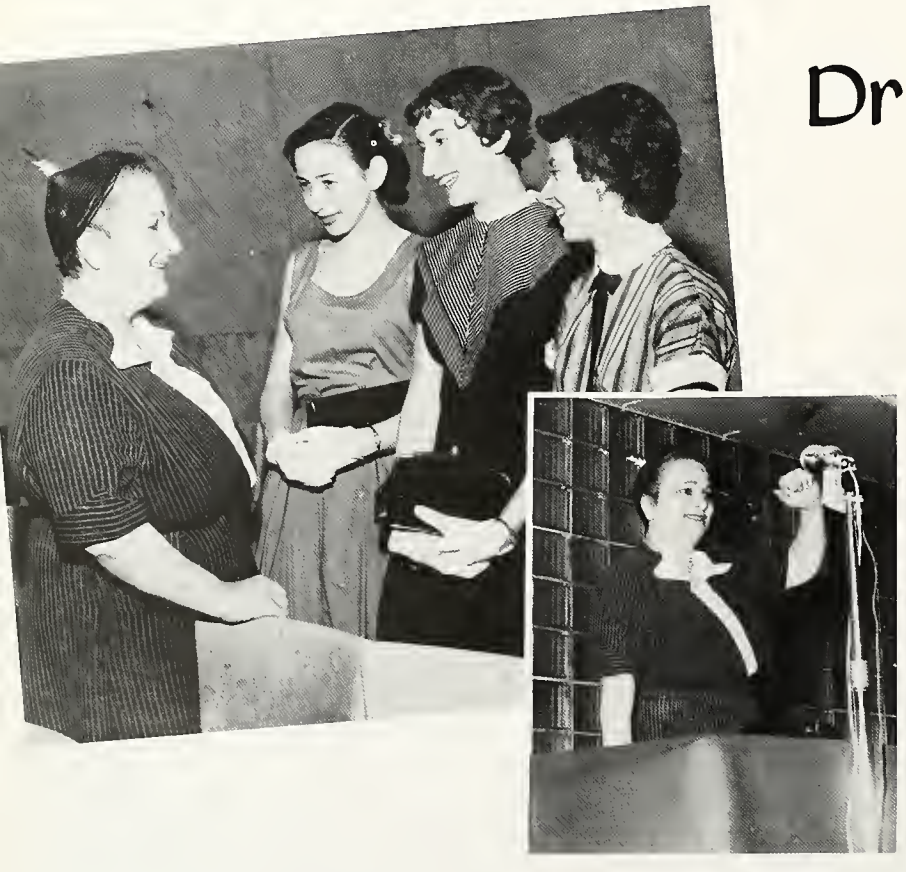
Loyola Forum

REV. JOHN A. TOOMEY, S.J.
Director

Father John A. Toomey, S.J., director, presented another attractive program for the 1954-55 season.

Favorites such as Bishop Fulton J. Sheen and the Dublin Players appeared again. New personalties of national interest and appeal, such as former Communist, Dr. Bella V. Dodd, and the "Singing Boys of Mexico," made bows in 1955, the Forum's 12th year.



Dr. Bella V. Dodd

Former Communist Dr. Bella V. Dodd's address, "The Challenge to Our Nation from Within," brought the 1955 Forum to a close.

One of Bishop Sheen's famous converts, Dr. Dodd told the story of her activities in the Party and the miraculous awakening which resulted in her return to the faith of her youth, Catholicism.

DR. BELLA V. DODD

The Dublin Players appear on the Loyola Forum again . . . this time with "The Devil's Disciple."

Ronald Ibbs and Maureen Halligan, founders of the Dublin Players, rehearse a scene from one of their plays.

The Dublin Players

The Dublin Players, a Forum favorite, opened the series this year with a performance of George Bernard Shaw's "The Devil's Disciple" on January 29.

Founded in Ireland in 1947, the internationally known theatre troupe is directed by Ronald Ibbs, formerly one of the leading actors of the Old Vic Company in London and Lord Langford's Gate Theatre in Dublin.

A presentation of Dr. Lennox Robinson's "The Far Off Hills" was the group's second offering for the Forum on January 31.

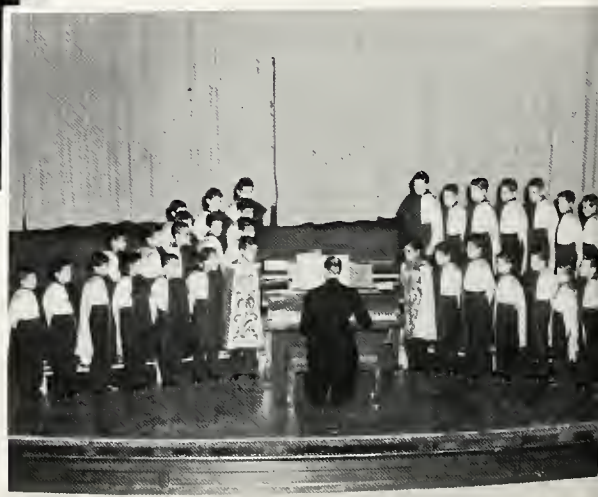
The Dublin Players troupe see Jackson Square on their tour of New Orleans.

McMain Auditorium was the scene for the Dublin Players' two-night performance on the Forum.

Singing Boys of Mexico

The 33 magnificent voices of the "Singing Boys of Mexico" featured the second Farum an March 3, an unusual treat for the city's music lovers.

Making their New Orleans debut, the choir, under the direction of Romano Picutti, former conductor of the famous Vienna Boys' Choir, displayed a repertoire ranging from ancient church music to modern Mexicon folk songs.



Bishop Fulton J. Sheen

Bishop Fulton J. Sheen's eleventh appearance before the Forum praved as resaunding a success as his first in 1944.

The capacity audience which filled the Municipal Auditorium far this, the fourth 1955 Forum, is characteristic of the New York prelate's visits ta New Orleans.

His topic, "Religion In Russia," praved bath educatianal and revealing, as it lifted the curtain an Russia's religious life.

Returning ta New Orleans and the Farum has became a "must" for him, according ta the Bishap, wha is famed as an author, an aratar, and especially as one af the outstanding televisian persanolities of our times.

Institute of Industrial Relations

Father Twomey addresses students at one of the Industrial Relations forums.

REV. LOUIS J. TWOMEY, S.J.
Director

The purpose of the Institute of Industrial Relations is to train management and labor to work together in the spirit of mutual cooperation, good faith and fair dealing. To accomplish this the Institution offers a series of non-credit courses, a Certificate of Merit being offered at the end of each session.

Under the direction of the Rev. Louis J. Twomey, S.J., the Institute, which was established in 1947, is open not only to managers and workers but also to all actively interested in employer-employee relations.

W.W.L.

Going over their scripts are members of one of the WWL Faculty Panels.

WWL, operating since 1922, is a pioneer among radio stations in New Orleans.

From its small beginning in the University's Physics workroom, WWL has grown into a 50,000 watt clear-channel station.

Under the management of Howard Summerville, it is now affiliated with the Columbia Broadcasting System, and broadcasts from studios in the Roosevelt Hotel.

Dr. Witte, left, prepares his script for another Faculty Panel.

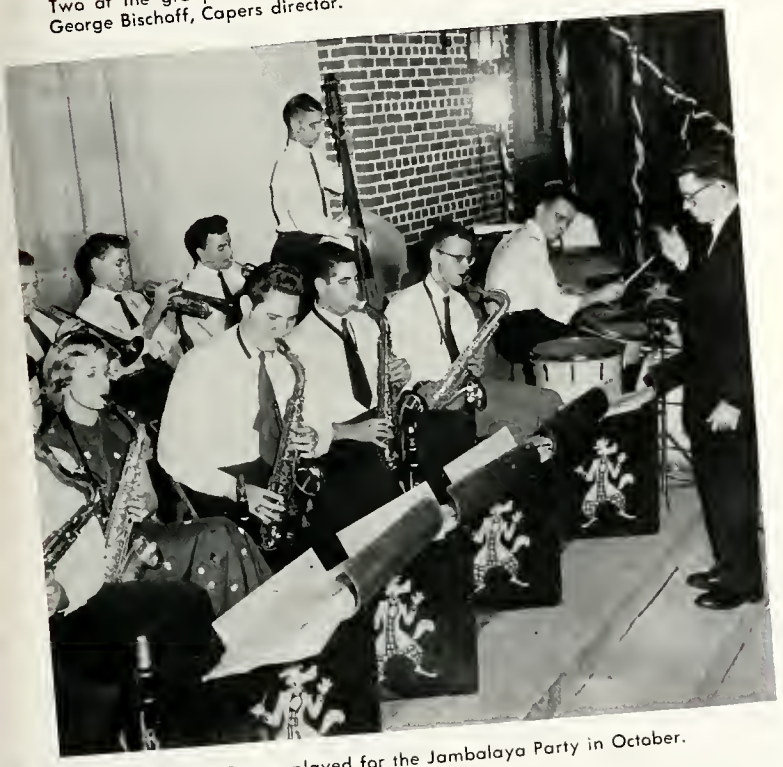
Campus Capers

Two of the group's biggest assets are Charlie Suhor on drums and George Bischoff, Capers director.

Campus Capers is a musical variety group featuring talent from any department in the University.

A training ground for Loyola talent, the group went on several good-will tours this year and also played at the Jambalaya party and several of the University dances.

The Pastels are one of the many talented groups feotured on the Capers shows.



Campus Capers played for the Jambalaya Party in October.

Jahnny Paquette is a regular Capers soloist.

The groups spend many hours practicing in the Music School basement.

"The Trebelaires" hold the banner they received for winning first place in the group competition.

Winners in the three competitive divisions stond on stage with Campus Queen Dot Wotkins and members of Blue Key, os Doc Arnold introduces them.

The histary of dentistry is told in skit form by dental students who walked off with first ploce.

Placing third in the group competition were Irlee Leclere, left, and Tessie Lopez, right.

"Real Gone With The Wind," the music school skit, gained second place in the skit competition.

The Med Tech skit, a take-off on old time movies, came in third in the skit competition.

Ball or strike?

Shirley Trusty and Joan Arnold of the Soph debating team laak carefully over their notes.

The frosh reach for a jump ball.

Hausmann Trophy

The Hausmann Trophy competition flows from one of the oldest traditions of the campus. Now in its 28th year, the annual rivalry between the freshmen and sophomores was inauguroted by Gabriel Hausmann of Hausmann's Jewelers. In 1927, he donated an award in the form of a plaque to the class winning the majority of a set number of scholastic and athletic events.

This year the sophomores won the plaque. Thus ended the short reign of the freshmen, who won the plaque in 1954 for the first time in three years.

Frosh debator Valerie Lacour asks for higher assistance while teammate Mary Arnold prepares a auick return.

Mike Federica makes home easily.

Fight, fight, fight, you men of the South!

"Back the Pack" is the living theme of the Pep Club members. At home games, the club fires the team and the student body with its spirit.

The group's pre-game Masses, its hand routines and decorations at the games aid in arousing enthusiasm in sports activities.

The annual cheerleader elections are organized and sponsored under the Pep Club's guidance. This year's cheerleaders included Gerry Bodet, Bob Guidry, Pat Wilkerson and Henry Manning.

Thespians has done it again this year with three major productions and five dramatic readings. Its first production, "The Torchbearers," drew raves from the critics. Ditto for its other productions, "Medea" and "Man on the Right."

The Thespians, which was founded at Loyola in the mid-20's, has thus continued to uphold its purpose of providing good theatrical entertainment for the University as well as for the community.

Not to be outdone by its older brother, the Junior Thespian group produced its hilarious version of "Out of the Frying Pan."

BA caps Student Council's "Back the Pack" trophy.

Another year of effective student government can be written in the annals of Loyola with the closing of this term.

From the outset, the Council has worked diligently beginning with the preparations for Freshman Orientation Week and continuing through until its last function, the Junior-Senior Prom.

The adoption of a new constitution, however, eclipsed all other activities of this year's Council.

The Wolf wishes to congratulate Father O'Flynn, moderator, Tom Rayer and the entire Council on a job well done.

A newcomer to the Loyola campus is the Dental Inter-Fraternity Council, which was formed in January, 1955.

The Council is composed of three representatives from each af the dental fraternities. The purpose of this group is ta coordinate and regulate the activities of the dental fraternities, especially in regard to rushing and pledging. The Council also plans functions sponsored jointly by the three fraternities.

The Wolf

TERESITA WILLIAMS
Editor

The Wolf needs no introduction to Loyola students. From the number of inquiries as to when it will make its annual appearance, the staff of The Wolf naturally concludes it is the most anticipated publication on the campus.

Tootsie Williams, our editor, mapped out the year's events in September and was always ready to answer the questions of those who were greenhorns at this type of work.

Russ Cresson, our capable cameraman, was always on the job, never letting an event go by without a photographic reminder of it.

Father Toomey, The Wolf moderator, came by the office often to see how we were coming along.

The rest of the staff worked together to see that this annual got out to the students. Let it be said that Dennis Bucher was the first to finish his work on The Wolf.

Just about the most successful athletic year in Loyola University's history has ended.

Outstanding records were compiled in track and baseball. Better than average years were completed by both basketball and tennis squads.

Chronologically, basketball at Loyola during the 1954-55 season found the Wolfpack—

(1) Dedicating its new 6,500-seat fieldhouse;

(2) Playing LaSalle College, the national cage champs, in the fieldhouse dedication game;

(3) Upsetting the University of Illinois in the fieldhouse. At that time the Illini was the nation's Number One cage team;

(4) Playing in the Sugar Bowl cage tournament for the first time in the Pack's history;

(5) Setting a new all-time scoring high for a single game with 101 points against Florida State University;

(6) Applauding the efforts of Edward Patrick Galvin, the Chicago senior who undaubtedly was the finest cager in Loyola's history; and

(7) Winning 13 games against 10 defeats during the toughest cage season Loyola hos ever had.

All in all, Coach Jim McCafferty and the Wolfpack had a successful basketball season.

To You

ROBERT C. HANBERG

Robert C. "Bobby" Hanberg came to Loyola University in 1950 heralded as a tennis star.

He was a tall, husky, good-looking kid, a natural athlete.

Along with becoming a tennis star he made a name for himself on the Loyola hardwood as an outstanding basketball player.

He completed four years of outstanding play in both basketball and tennis. In September, 1954, he was appointed head tennis coach and assistant in basketball. He was still a student, and had a year of studies to complete.

On December 21, 1954, he started home (Whittier, California) for the Christmas holidays. He had not been home on Christmas in five years.

Hanberg never reached home for Christmas in 1954 either.

He was killed (along with two other Loyola students and their mother) in an automobile accident in Texas.

Hanberg was an outstanding athlete. He was what Coach Jim McCafferty called "a hungry athlete." "He would have been outstanding in any sport," McCafferty said.

Hanberg will go down in Loyola history as one of the Wolfpack's greats.

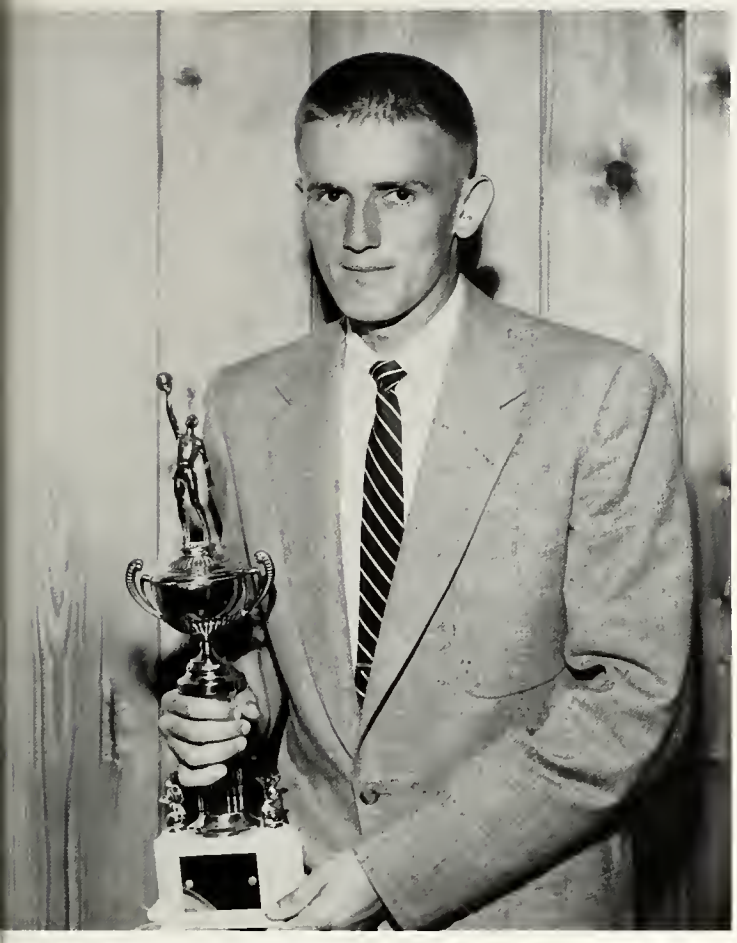
EDDIE GALVIN



Trophy for most outstanding basketball player—1954-55

A six-faat, five-inch all-araund athlete fram St. Philip High School in Chicaga, Galvin has drawn mare raves from the local and national press far his basketball ability than any athlete heretafore enrolled at Layola.

His main forte an the hardwaad was his speed and deceptive blind passes, which enabled him to break every existing recard during the last faur years.

His tatal of 1,438 points in 106 games topped by same 200 points the previous recard held by Gus Reynoir. He cracked the individual single-game mark with 40 points set in the Eastern Kentucky game and he posted a single game mark for the Fieldhouse af 40 points during the New Orleans Invitational Tournament.

His over-all average far four years was 13.5 points per game.

Eddie was named to the second team All-Jesuit college five and made honorable mentian in Callier's magazine far this district.

At the end of his college career he was signed and drafted by the Syracuse professional team and will report at the end of his tour of duty with the Army.

WOLF PUPS

Illinois, Indiana, Louisiana, New York, New Mexico and Mexico contributed the nucleus of the 1954-55 Wolfpup basketball team.

Coach "Boo" Jones had basketball tolent from all over the country, and with it he compiled a team average of .609 percentage points.

His win-loss record showed 14 wins against 9 defeats. He developed a freshman team seasoned to face the tough 1955-56 coge year ahead.

Coach Jones, who came to Loyola from Cathedral High School in Lafayette, Louisiana, compiled a phenomenal record as a high school coach. We feel confident he will do the same at Loyola.

BASEBALL

J. C. ORSLEY, COACH

Compiling a .863 percentage for the 1955 season the Orsleymen did more than their share in making this Loyola's outstanding athletic year.

Talented Loyola baseballers compiled a 19-3 record during the 1955 season—the best in 10 years of post-war baseball.

Only defeats by Mississippi State, Centenary and Southwestern La. Institute marred a brilliant seasan. The Wolves later gained revenge on both Mississippi State and SLI.

Coach Jack Orsley's Wolves set a new scoring record when they beat SLI, 25-8, here at Muny Park.

At the end of the season, the Wolves were nominated for the regional NCAA playoff, but arrangements could not be made and they did not go.

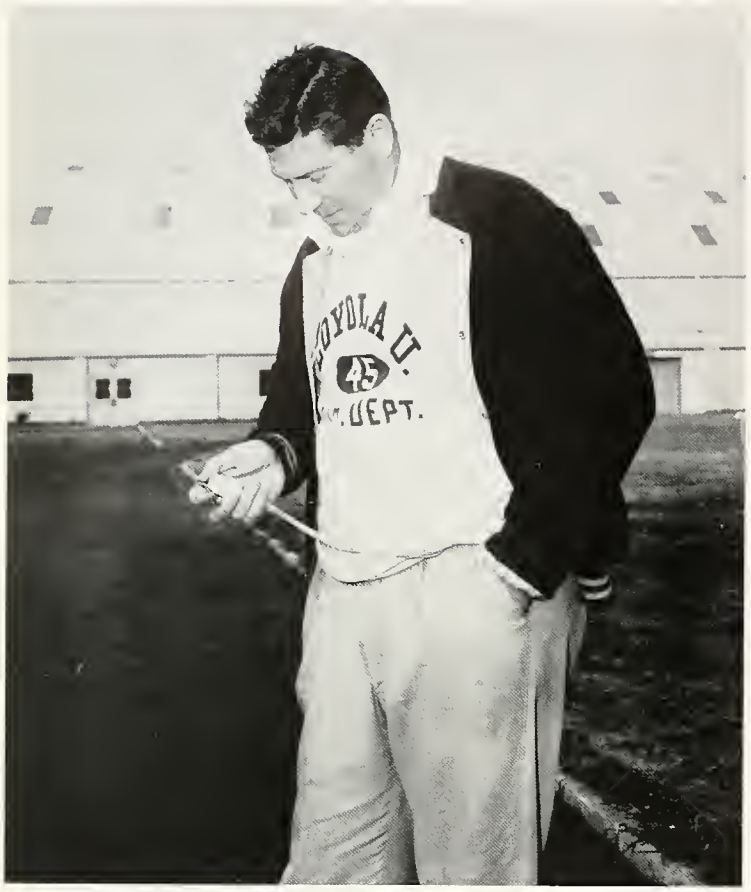
TRACK



JAMES J. McCAFFERTY, COACH

Contributing its share to the school's most successful athletic year, the Loyola thinclads compiled another remarkable season.

Coach Jim McCafferty had an 11-man track team this spring.

The 11 "Iron Men" went through an undefeated season. It was the second straight undefeated season, too.

With a lack of weight-men, McCafferty had to depend on an array of sprinters and distance runners to win his meets.

His thinclads won the Southern AAU meet for the second year, placed second in the SLI Relays, third in the Florida Relays ond won in duol meets from SLI, Florida State and Mississippi Southern.

TENNIS

A brief run down of the season saw:

Coach Artie Franz replaced the late Bobby Hanberg as tennis coach in the early spring.

And Franz led an inexperienced tennis squad to a successful 7-3 season.

The Wolves managed to beat Spring Hill, Mississippi Southern and SLI twice and Southeastern once for their seven victaries. Losses were to LSU, and Lamar Tech (twice).

Playing for the Wolves were George Frilot, Donald Frilot, Harv[illegible] Couch, Jim Ford, Skippy Garcia, and Francis [illegible]

GENE WALET

Gene Walet

Twenty-four years ago, Loyola athletes went to the Olympic Games for the first time. Once again, Loyola will have a member of the team. This time it will be Gene Walet, the top sailor in North and South America.

In the last three years, Walet has captured more titles than any other sailor. Winner of the Mallory Cup in 1954 and 1955, Walet is the only man to win the North American title two consecutive years.

Earlier this year, he ventured to Buenos Aires to win the South American title at the Pan-American Games. With this win he rules the roost as top skipper in the Western hemisphere.

In the Olympic trials at Seattle, Gene was so far ahead in points after four races that the judges awarded him his Olympic berth because "even if Walet sank in the fifth race his nearest competitor still couldn't catch him." When he makes his trip to Melbourne Walet will be following the footsteps of Emmett Toppino, the Flynn Brothers and Roland Romero.

The 1955 Wolf

By now you have finished reading The 1955 Wolf.

What do you think of it?

Our goal was to present a record of your 1954-1955 year at Loyola — as a freshman, a sophomore, a junior or a senior. If you can look at this copy of The Wolf and feel that it accurately mirrors this year at Loyola, then our goal is accomplished. And that is all the recompense we want.

We do, however, own up to another hope — the hope that you will cherish this Wolf more and more as the years speed by.

My thanks go to many people. First of all, to the staff, especially those who worked long and hard after the close of the spring semester, I gratefully appreciate your wonderful cooperation.

Father Toomey, our moderator, provided constructive criticism, advice, and encouragement whenever it was needed. So to him, I say thank you, too.

And thank you, Russ Cresson, for your excellent pictorial coverage of the year.
